MEMORANDUM FOR THE FILE

FROM: [redacted]

SUBJECT: Tower nomination: Phone call from [redacted]

Senator Nunn's office forwarded a phone call to me from a [redacted] (both a home and an office number).

[redacted] stated that he is a [redacted]. He gave the following references who could vouch for his credibility: [redacted] (for whom he had been a fundraiser) and his [redacted] who he said knows

Senator Nunn.

[redacted] stated the following: Sen. Tower has been keeping a Russian emigre [redacted] in a house in Houston that he purchased for her near the River Oaks Country Club. [redacted] said that he was in Houston on [redacted] in the summer of 1987, and met the woman at the Country Club. She invited him to her home. There were 4-5 other guests there. There were several doctors from [redacted]

[redacted] in Houston. Sen. Tower found out that [redacted] Sen. Tower told [redacted] that this was his woman, that he had introduced her to [redacted] society, and that he had bought the house for her. Then, [redacted] Sen. Tower and the woman danced, [redacted]

[redacted] got on top of the piano -- a big Wurlitzer grand piano. When Sen. Tower started [redacted]

[redacted] said that he cannot remember the name of the woman. It was a Russian name. Her house was quite big; affluent; two blocks from the Country Club. She was a [redacted] of some renown. The name of the [redacted] is listed in the phone book. She had been well known in Russia and had [redacted] in the area. He added that before the party, she had mentioned that she was going with a Senator but he did not want to be seen in public with her. At the party, Sen. Tower introduced himself as John Tower and [redacted] said that he recognized Sen. Tower from newspaper pictures.

7 APR 27 1989

[redacted] said that before he left Houston, he gave her a call to thank her for the party and she said: what do you think of my boyfriend? She also said that she arranged for female [redacted] at [redacted] to be escorted by Sen. Tower to dinner and on pheasant hunts.

[redacted] said that he thought the name of one of the other persons at the party was [redacted]

[redacted] declined to give us his address, stating that he did not want to receive "any subpoenas." He said, however, that he was willing to talk to anyone in authority on the phone.

COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

WASHINGTON, DC 20510-6050

February 2, 1989

MEMORANDUM FOR THE FILE

FROM: [REDACTED]

SUBJECT: Tower Nomination - Attempt to locate [REDACTED] physician

Offices of the following physicians were contacted in an attempt to identify a [REDACTED] of Houston, TX, who practices at [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] practices at Doctor's Hospital in Conroe, TX, not Houston. Not available for interview according to secretary.

[REDACTED] formerly practiced at Doctor's in Houston, but transferred his practice to San Diego approximately two years ago. Podiatrist.

In addition to the above inquiries, the following information was developed regarding the source of the allegation, [REDACTED] of California:

Telephone [REDACTED] is registered to [REDACTED]
[REDACTED] Hercules, Contra Costa County, CA.

[REDACTED] is not registered with the San Francisco Medical Society (registration is voluntary).

The California State Licensing Bureau (916/920-6343) will have background information available on the source as a licensed practitioner.

On this day, the source of the allegation, [REDACTED] from California, returned a call from the Committee. He volunteered additional information that could help to locate the Houston physician and the Russian emigre.

Watson said that on the evening in question, Senator Tower behaved in a very demanding and demeaning fashion toward him after the other guests had departed. Senator Tower allegedly demanded that [REDACTED] continue to play the piano despite [REDACTED] stated intention of leaving. [REDACTED] declared that Sen. Tower had been drinking heavily the entire evening, which likely very likely contributed to his exaggerated behavior.

In discussing the River Oaks home in which the party occurred, [ ] recalled that it was situated on a very wide boulevard and had a distinctive East Coast architectural style, which he compared to a "Cape Cod" construction. He further described the house as two-story, spacious, in a deep setting from the street. He also noted that the Wurlitzer piano was located in a music room/salon which adjoined the first floor entry area.

[ ] described Tower's relationship to the emigre as one comparable to a wealthy European supporting and maintaining a younger mistress. He said that the emigre appeared willing to do whatever Tower requested, [ ] as an example. He described the Russian emigre as: late 30's or early 40's, brunette, 5'-6", excellent physical condition, very articulate, distinct Russian accent, and appeared well connected to Houston social circles.

In regard to the doctors who attended the party, [ ] recalled that one of them possibly used the same name as him, [ ]. He believed that this [ ] was a Houston gynecologist who was also the President of Doctor's National Bank, near the Doctor's Center on S. Main St., Houston.

A telephone to the Doctor's Center and International Bank, 713/790-1411, disclosed that the President is [ ]. The receptionist, who claimed to have been employed there for five years, said that there was no [ ] affiliated with the bank.

The Honorable Sam Nunn
Chairman
Committee on Armed Services
United States Senate
Washington, D.C. 20510-6050

Dear Mr. Chairman:

JOHN GORDWIN TOWER

This will respond to your January 30, 1989 letter inquiring whether any letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Senator Tower were received by the Transition Office or the White House from November 8, 1988 through January 31, 1989; and, if so, whether such letters were provided to the FBI and investigated and addressed in the FBI Report made available to you.

To the best of my knowledge, no letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Senator Tower were received by either the Transition Office or the White House during the period in question.

During the transition, letters received by the Transition Office relating to possible Presidential appointments were forwarded to the Transition Office of Presidential Personnel for appropriate action. Similarly, letters received in the White House from November 8, 1988 through January 13, 1989 for President-elect Bush on potential nominations were forwarded to the Transition Office of Presidential Personnel. My office has reviewed all letters received by Transition Personnel concerning Senator Tower, and none contain specific allegations of impropriety. Further, my office has reviewed all correspondence received by President-elect Bush's office between January 13 - 20, 1989 and none contained such allegations. Finally, I am advised that all correspondence received by the White House since January 20, 1989 concerning Presidential appointments would have been routed to the Office of Presidential Personnel for appropriate action, and that Office has no knowledge of any letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Senator Tower.

Dear [REDACTED]

The Committee has received information alleging that the White House has received letters containing specific allegations of impropriety concerning Senator Tower. Please provide us with the following information:

1. During the period from November 8, 1988 and the date of your response to this letter, were any letters containing serious allegations of impropriety by Senator Tower received by either the Transition Office or the White House?
2. If so, were such letters provided to the FBI? If not, why not?
3. If such letters were provided to the FBI, did the FBI examine each allegation in the course of its background investigation? If not, why not?
4. If such letters were provided to the FBI, was each such allegation raised and addressed in the FBI Report made available to us?

Your cooperation in this matter is appreciated.

COMMITTEE ON ARMED SERVICES

WASHINGTON, DC 20510-8050

February 6, 1989

[REDACTED]
The White House
Washington, D.C. 20500

Dear [REDACTED]

The Committee has been reviewing allegations that files concerning [REDACTED] in Geneva during the same period as Senator Tower's service, contain information reflecting adversely on Senator Tower's suitability for the position of Secretary of Defense. On Friday, January 20, 1989, we advised your office that we had been informed that a file on [REDACTED] other than the Air Force OSI file, might exist in the Office of Personnel Management, in the Department of State, or at ACDA, and we requested that you have the FBI determine whether any such file existed at those agencies. We were advised by your office the next week that no such file existed.

There was a report in the Philadelphia Inquirer on [REDACTED] [REDACTED] purporting to quote extensively from a file concerning [REDACTED]. Much of the material quoted therein was apparently from documents that have not been provided to this Committee. When we brought this matter to the attention of your office this morning, we were advised that a further inquiry would be made, and we were subsequently informed that such material does exist in the files of the Office of Personnel Management. We have further been informed that the material was made available to the FBI today.

The Committee requests that all OPM files on [REDACTED] be made available promptly to the Committee.

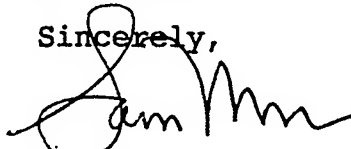

I am concerned that this file was not provided to the FBI during its initial inquiry to OPM as part of the background investigation, and I find it unusual that OPM failed to provide the specific file in connection with our January 20 request -- yet the file was apparently easily located after our inquiry today. I believe it is important for the FBI to determine who at OPM was responsible for the initial failure to provide the file in January and whether there was any tampering with the file.

ENCLOSURE

In view of this situation, it is also imperative that the FBI determine whether there are any files on  at any other agency that have not previously been examined, and to advise us whether these files contain any information on Senator Tower.

Sincerely,

DLT-1, who is familiar with the appointee, furnished the following information:

Even though words such as "he" and "she" may be used to describe DLT-1, no inference as to sex should be used.

DLT-1 advised that he has known appointee in a social or professional setting, or both. DLT-1 stated, that approximately 10 to 15 years ago, in the 1970's, appointee would fly from Washington, D.C. to Dallas, Texas on many weekends. Appointee would drink to excess on the flights. Appointee was inebriated on numerous flights. On one particular occasion in the 1970's, appointee was assisted off the airplane by two stewardesses.

DLT-1 stated that over the last couple of years and to the present, appointee only consumes wine and he has not seen appointee in an inebriated condition.

DLT-1 described appointee being of good character and to keep good associates. Appointee has a favorable reputation and is considered a loyal American.

DLT-1 advised that he has no knowledge concerning any drug usage by appointee whatsoever. He knows nothing about appointee's general state of health and has no knowledge what appointee's means are. He has no knowledge concerning any prejudice or bias harbored by appointee against any group, race, religion, or a group of any national origin.

DLT-1 was asked whether appointee while in an alcoholic condition, ever divulged any national secrets and he responded that he never saw appointee in an out of control condition.

DLT-1 was also asked if appointee would have the propensity in the future to divulge any national secrets and he responded that he could not imagine that happening.

Earlier Allegations About Paisley Told

Fellow Boeing Workers Accused Him in 1978 of Bribing Military Officials

By BOB DROGIN and GLENN P. BUNTING, Times Staff Writers

SEATTLE—Melvyn R. Paisley, a former assistant Navy secretary who is a central figure in the sweeping Pentagon fraud scandal, was accused a decade ago by his own fellow executives of bribing military officials and bugging the offices of competitors when he worked for the Boeing Co., according to retired Boeing officials and documents obtained by The Times.

Two executives became so alarmed that in 1978, shortly after leaving the company, they went to Boeing management to express concern about Paisley's conduct, officials said in lengthy interviews. At the special management briefing they also complained that Paisley charged fees for prostitutes to his expense account, according to an agenda of the session made available to The Times.

"Usually every major company has one guy who does the dirty business," former Boeing executive James Duret said in an interview at his home. "He was the guy."

Ex-Fighter Pilot

The disclosures about Paisley are the latest in an emerging picture of a high-flying ex-fighter pilot with a penchant for testing the boundaries of the rules. His reputation for driving hard and living fast contributed to a career marked by allegations of questionable conduct.

The revelations also raise questions about how Paisley was able to be confirmed to one of the most powerful positions in the Defense Department, particularly after the FBI was told during a 1981 background check that he had taken gratuities including cash and a sewing machine.

During his employment at Boeing, where Paisley spent most of his defense industry career, he is believed to have built a network of individuals whom he used to further his personal business. It was these associations, not necessarily linked to the company itself, that Paisley later allegedly relied on to improperly obtain information in schemes outlined by government sources familiar with the current investigation.

Deputy Head Suspected

One association was with James M. Gaines, whom Paisley hired at Boeing and who later joined him at the Pentagon as his deputy. After Paisley left the Defense Department, Gaines stayed with the Navy and is now suspected of being a major supplier of classified and proprietary material to Paisley, according to sources who don't want to be identified.

Another former Boeing official, who also worked at the Pentagon during Paisley's tenure, said, "Boeing didn't pay bribes, but Paisley did."

"He's dishonest. Everything he did, there was something devious about it," said this official, who spoke on the condition that he not be identified. He added that he believed Paisley acted on his own in his questionable practices.

Paisley's wife, Vicki A. Paisley, would not accept calls. She told her husband "would have no comment" and referred inquiries to the couple's lawyer, Lawrence E. Barcella, who was not available.

One longtime Seattle friend of Paisley who requested anonymity characterized him as a cunning and adventurous personality, saying. "I don't see anything Mel hasn't done." But, the friend added, "he's a real survivor. I'm sure he'll survive this—in his own way."

In his 27 years at Boeing, which included a high-level position as a manager of international marketing, Paisley openly bragged about his exploits, former company officials said.

Paisley was known as a "hard-drinking, two-listed man's man" who would stop at nothing to get his way, Durst said. "He loved to talk, he loved to brag. Mel had certain priorities: women, money and business—particularly women," he said.

In a drag company, he was a colorful figure.

Durst also said that Paisley told colleagues about bugging a competitor for a military contract in 1970; about bribing U.S. military officers overseas; and about hiding payoffs and wild parties with prostitutes on his military contract expense reports.

Doubted He'd Last

Indeed, when Paisley went to Washington to work for Navy Secretary John F. Lehman Jr., some of his associates made a bet on how long he'd last.

"People used to laugh at me. I won't last six months," Durst said. "As soon as they do a security check, he'll be out. I guess they never did. We never thought he'd last."

In Spokane, Mildred R. McGee-trick, one of Paisley's three ex-wives, said she told the FBI that Paisley was "dishonest with money." She said she also told federal agents that Paisley took gratuities including cash and gifts.

Her sister, Mickey Pierson, said she sent a letter to then-Sen. John Tower (R-I), chairman of the Armed Services Committee, which was considering Paisley's appointment in November, 1981, saying that "Mr. Paisley has been known to take bribes" that included a Singer sewing machine from a company doing business with Boeing.

"Nobody listened. To this day it puzzles me how Paisley won confirmation for such a sensitive job," McGee-trick said.

Sue Schnitzer, an FBI spokeswoman, said the bureau's background report was turned over to the White House "without comment or recommendation" on Sept. 20, 1981. She would not discuss details of the report. Attempts to reach Tower were not successful.

Paisley, who joined Boeing in 1954, developed a keen interest in Washington after the 1980 elections when it became apparent that Lehman would be the new Reagan Administration's choice to head the Navy Department. Earlier, Paisley had hired Lehman to work as a consultant for Boeing and the two had become good friends. In 1981, Lehman asked Paisley to be one of his top assistants. He ultimately assumed considerable control over Navy procurement.

As assistant secretary in charge of procurement, Paisley was involvement in such ultra-sensitive technical areas as submarine listening and quieting devices; stealth aircraft and missiles; satellite reconnaissance projects and electronic jammers. Not only did the job require Senate confirmation, but Paisley would have to pass a detailed FBI background check for security clearances.

Durst, who has not seen Paisley since he left the company in 1977, spent five years trying to get Boeing to fire Paisley, and then trying to warn the Defense Department, President Reagan's aides and the FBI that Paisley was a security risk.

"He told executives that he had bribed MACs," Durst said, a reference to U.S. military advisory groups abroad. He said Paisley used a New York-based shipping company to "launder the cash." Paisley was never charged.

Another former Boeing executive said he too tried to undermine Paisley's move into the Navy Department.

"We tried to tell people—we went to people in the Pentagon to tell them that Paisley was no good," said the retired executive, adding that he did not know Durst very well and had pursued his efforts against Paisley independently.

He said he and his closest colleagues believed they had to try to prevent Paisley from getting the Pentagon appointment "for the good of our government."

Australian Complaint

At one point, Durst said, a prominent Boeing consultant in Australia, Sir Edwin Hicks, complained that Paisley was so blatant in his offers of payoffs there that Paisley was made persona non grata in Australia.

"I've never faced," Durst recalled about the meeting with a furious Hicks, who he said was two years ago. "He said Paisley had tried to buy people, pay under the table."

In May, 1978, Durst and a colleague decided that corruption was so rampant at Boeing that they asked for a meeting with Benjamin T. Flymyle, then vice president at Boeing Aerospace and Paisley's direct boss.

Over lunch at the Hyatt House at the Sea-Tac Airport, Durst used a 16-page typewritten "white paper" he had prepared to make the case for a thorough house-cleaning. Durst said he and his colleague had already left Boeing and were hoping to win a consulting contract.

poor management, poor professional and other management problems. But the list on Page 7 was explosive. It was titled "Deeply embedded corruption."

Durst's original dog-eared copy of the memo shows that Paisley's name, as well as those of several other Boeing employees, was penciled in beside allegations of "prostitution on expense account" and "using expense accounts to cover illegal activities."

Paisley's name also is penciled in beside the heading "Industrial espionage," specifically, "wire-tapping and snooping illegally on competitor's facilities."

"I went through all this," Durst said Saturday, showing the memo to a reporter. "The bugging, the bribery, the hookers. And Ben looked at me and said, 'Every goddamn word of it is true.' And he said he'd get back to us. He never did. That's when we found out that he and Paisley were best friends."

Reported to FBI

Durst said he repeatedly requested a meeting with Boeing Co. President Mel Stamps, but was refused. He said he reported the information to the FBI in 1983.

Boeing reached Seattle. A spokeswoman said the firm's spokesman would not accept calls "on matters of this nature" on the weekend.

Plymale, a former deputy assistant secretary of defense for strategic and space systems, and five other Boeing employees lost their top-secret security clearance when the Defense Department found they had mishandled classified information on the proposed MX strategic missile in March 1979.

Investigators said an aide in Washington, D.C., had transmitted a summary of a top-secret memo intended for President Jimmy Carter to Plymale's office in Seattle over open telephone lines. Pentagon officials said Soviet agents routinely monitor telephone lines to and from U.S. defense contractors.

Plymale and another Boeing vice president also were investigated for destroying evidence. No formal charges were brought, however, and Plymale later served on Ronald Reagan's 1981 transition team along with Lehman.

In August 1981, Plymale died, reportedly of a heart attack, at a Seattle hospital.

Durst, now 54, said he and Paisley worked in close proximity for six years, sharing the same secretary, after Durst moved to Boeing's Kent, Wash., headquarters in 1971. Paisley was then director of planning for Boeing Aerospace. Durst was assistant to the vice president of requirements and marketing.

Early Assignment

One of Durst's first assignments, he said, was to go to New Hampshire to campaign for then-presidential hopeful Henry M. (Scoop) Jackson and later put the costs of the trip on his expense account. Jackson, a Democratic senator from Washington state, was known for his advocacy of a strong defense program.

"Two or three weeks later, Jack Anderson writes a scoop about how Boeing was paying for political support for Scoop Jackson," Durst said. "Hell, I didn't know it was illegal."

"I was sullen, I had the stamp on me. So Paisley came over because he had heard of it. He was laughing. He said, 'Hey, I'll tell you a good marketing story.'"

According to Durst, Paisley told him he had found a new way to get the low bid on an Air Force contract for housekeeping at Patrick Air Force Base at Cape Canaveral in Florida.

'Mr. Squeaky Clean'

Paisley said he had sent an aide to put a bug in a Pan Am office to get their bidding figures.

"Here I am, honest all my life," Durst said.

"He is a senior man in the company bragging about bugging on a military project. He was very flippant about it."

"When he told me about bugging Pan Am, I was an accessory," Durst recalled. "I was scared to death. But he was very open about it."

Later, Durst said, he needed an aide who spoke Portuguese and Spanish to help on a trade mission to Brazil, and one was provided. "Three days later, I ran into Mel in the men's room, and he was laughing. He said, 'That's the guy who did the bugging,' referring to the aide."

Durst said he fired the man from his department after the trip for cheating on his expense account.

"Information is the essence of the business," Durst said. "There are good ways to do it and bad ways. Mel, unfortunately, always used the bad ways."

Staff writers Dan Morain in Seattle and William C. Rempel, Robert Gillette, Melissa Healy, Doug Juhl and Jim Schechter in Washington contributed to this story.

SUBJECT: Tower Nomination - U.S. Savings &amp; Loan League

On February 3, 1989, a telephone call was received from [REDACTED] Enterprise, FL, tele: [REDACTED]. Initially, [REDACTED] was extremely reluctant to provide her name and explained that she was concerned about becoming involved in another political scandal. [REDACTED] explained that she had spent "three years in hell" after [REDACTED] and the resulting news media coverage of her involvement.

b7D

During the period 1968-1970, [REDACTED] was employed as [REDACTED] for the U.S. Savings and Loan League, a Washington, D.C. lobbying firm. She said that the League has since merged with another savings and loan association which is located in the AIA Building. The League was headed by Steve Slipper, now deceased.

As [REDACTED] for lobbyist [REDACTED] said that she became quite familiar with a specific activity regarding Senator Tower. She maintained that her firm rented a room at the Carroll Arms Hotel near the Capitol during the entire time she worked at the League. She said that the room was rented on a daily basis solely for Senator Tower and that, to her knowledge, he never reimbursed the League. [REDACTED] said that at [REDACTED] instructions, she would often call a particular number in Washington and state, "a gentleman would like for you to join him for lunch." [REDACTED] said that based on the conversations she had with others in the office, she knew that the person she telephoned was a prostitute whose services were intended for the Senator. She also said that the number was for a listing in the Watergate Hotel.

ENCLOSURE

In addition to the Senator using the room for prostitutes, [REDACTED] said that he would often visit the Carroll Arms for lunches and conduct "job interviews" with prospective secretaries in the hotel room. She recalled directing several secretary applicants for the Senator to his Carroll Arms room. [REDACTED] maintained that on more than one occasion she overheard the lobbyists discuss how they had found the Senator inebriated in his room to a point that they had to place him into bed.

[REDACTED] said that the monthly bill for the Carroll Arms [REDACTED] and was paid for by [REDACTED]. She said that [REDACTED] is probably married now and would be reluctant to discuss this issue.

WMFT-9, who does not wish his identity to be revealed outside of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and was advised of the fact that the Federal Bureau of Investigation is currently conducting a background investigation concerning former Senator JOHN TOWER. The source of this information will be referred to in this document as WMFT-9 or as "he". However, no inference should be drawn as to the sex of this individual because of this usage.

WMFT-9 advised that he resided for about three years in a condominium building in which the appointee also had a residence. This building, Cathedral West, was located at 4100 Cathedral Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. Among the residents of this building, the appointee had a reputation of having a drinking problem. Residents often spoke of seeing the appointee returning home in a condition indicating he had been drinking extensively. The source stated, however, that he only saw the appointee returning home in such a condition two or three times. Each of these instances occurred late at night when the appointee was dropped off at the condominium door by another individual and he was observed by WMFT-9 to be staggering. In addition, the source saw TOWER drunk at one party during those three years. He recalled that, at that party, the appointee also had a large argument with his wife, TOWER's first wife. The source stated that he never personally observed the appointee drunk or drinking other than these above mentioned instances. However, he repeated that the appointee was regularly spoken about by his former neighbors as having a drinking problem.

WMFT-9 recalls one additional incident which further indicates that the appointee may have had a drinking problem. WMFT-9 recalls seeing an automobile which was then located at the bottom of a dell or ravine which was immediately next to the driveway used to enter the condominium property. The source explained that, as one entered the condominium property from Connecticut Avenue, it was necessary to drive past this ravine which ran parallel to Connecticut Avenue. Having passed that ravine, a car then drove under the portico of the building and made a right turn toward the parking garage. It appeared to the source that the individual driving this car had driven into the ravine after starting to drive down the driveway. When he inquired at the front desk of the condominium concerning the car, the elderly woman who ran the desk during those years (whose identity he does not recall at the present time) stated that "he did it again". She went on to explain that the car belonged to Senator TOWER who had returned home after drinking extensively and had driven the car off the driveway and into the ravine. She further indicated that this was the second time this particular accident had happened, the second time TOWER had driven off the driveway and into the ravine. The source advised, however, that he did not know of any prior instances of this occurring and certainly had not seen any. The source stated that he does not recall the description of the car in the ravine due to the length of time which has passed since then. At the time he saw this car in the ravine, he did not know its owner, only learning of TOWER's ownership of this car from the desk attendant.

WMFT-9 advised that, as a result of these accidents and the appointee's reputed drinking, several meetings were held of the condominium owner's association. The source only attended one of these meetings. He recalls questions and discussion indicating that several residents of the building wished to have TOWER removed from that condominium building. Questions were raised concerning writing letters to TOWER and other possible actions and solutions. The source advised that he does not know what action, if any, was ever taken by this association toward TOWER.

WMFT-9 recalled that this condominium building was one of the first condominiums in Washington, D.C. At the time of the above incident, the building was occupied by mostly older people. The source advised that, even then, he did not get to know his neighbors well. As a result of this fact and as a result of the time which has passed since the above incident, he is unable to recall the names or the identity of other residents, managers, or staff at this condominium. The source was unable to suggest anyone who could verify the above information.

WMFT-9 advised that he brought this information to the Federal Bureau of Investigation reluctantly. He noted that the above information pertains to a time period several years ago. He suggested that it is entirely possible that former Senator TOWER has put all of this drinking behind himself and that he no longer has a problem with abusing alcohol. The source stated that he does not wish to make any judgment concerning TOWER based on the above information, but merely wished to make it a matter of record.

[redacted] was interviewed in his office at the U.S. Capitol and following an appropriate display of credentials was informed that a background-type, government employment suitability investigation was being conducted concerning Senator JOHN G. TOWER. Further, [redacted] was informed that the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) was desirous of determining whether Senator TOWER had any medical record of liver damage or disease.

[redacted] spoke from having reviewed Senator TOWER's medical record; however, volunteered to point out various elements of Senator TOWER's records, all of which were neat and typed-written. The thrust of this reviewed disclosed that Senator TOWER's medical record fails to show any indication of liver disease or high and/or low figures with respect to liver function tests according to blood test results, from 1974 onward through 1985, when Senator TOWER was no longer eligible for medical exams, testing or treatment at the U.S. Capitol.

[redacted] advised that Senator TOWER did not receive any additional or special tests or exams with respect to his liver, because there was never any indication from routine results (SMA-12) that such exams were needed.

[redacted] advised that while he knows Senator TOWER socially, he was speaking about Senator TOWER's medical status only from having reviewed the record and has never conducted a medical exam of TOWER. [redacted] advised that Senator TOWER was no longer eligible for Congressional medical treatment when [redacted] became attending physician, which was in July, 1986.

[redacted] advised that he has known Senator TOWER for approximately fifteen years, first having met him at social functions as a result of his job [redacted] in the [redacted] described Senator TOWER as being articulate, "erudite", "a statesman", "an intellectually honest guy", one of "professional quality", and a "very impressive, spontaneous after-dinner-speaker".

[redacted] advised that Senator TOWER is "truly a disciplined human being" and that he has never seen him intoxicated. Further, [redacted] stated that "if it occurred, I have not seen it".

[redacted] advised that [redacted] are residents of the Jefferson Hotel, which is the same hotel where Senator TOWER lives. Further, [redacted] advised that [redacted] is the [redacted] and, therefore, [redacted]

According to [redacted] said "it never happened". [redacted] volunteered that he queried [redacted] as to how she could be certain, after which she said "it just didn't happen". [redacted] stated that he would be surprised if a man of Senator TOWER's character would behave in that manner, especially in view of all of the negative media attention he has been getting lately.

[redacted] emphasized that Senator TOWER is not the subject of negative rumor around the Jefferson Hotel.

[redacted] advised that he was "really pulling for this guy" to be confirmed by the Senate because he believes him to be highly suited for the position. He stated that he had no derogatory information whatsoever, to provide, either from first-hand knowledge or rumor. All of his comments were positive and complementary regarding Senator TOWER's friends, character, reputation, loyalty and ethics. In this regard, he very highly recommended Senator TOWER for a position of trust with the United States Government.

[redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and voluntarily provided the following information regarding the appointee JOHN GOODWIN TOWER:

He first met the appointee in approximately [redacted] when he started working on [redacted]. From early [redacted] until [redacted] worked directly for TOWER as Staff Director, Senate Policy Committee. [redacted] advised that he knew the appointee purely within a business context and only saw him outside of the office at a few Congressional social receptions. The appointee was characterized by [redacted] as being somewhat introverted and being a good delegator.

[redacted] indicated that he could think of nothing negative or derogatory in connection with the appointee's character, reputation, or personal associates. At no time did [redacted] see the appointee womanizing or acting otherwise inappropriately with the female sex. [redacted] knew of no problems with alcohol or prescription drug abuse, nor any use of illegal drugs. [redacted] advised that he had seen the appointee drink socially at the Congressional receptions but at no time did he appear to be out of control or in any way in an unsober state. He believed the appointee to be living within his financial means and to be in good mental and physical health. He was not aware of the appointee harboring any bias against any particular class of citizen.

[redacted] believes the appointee to be suited for access to classified or sensitive materials and highly recommended the appointee for the position of Secretary of Defense. [redacted] further advised that if the continued investigation of the appointee was due to allegations of the appointee's second wife, he would take those allegations with a "grain of salt". [redacted] stated that [redacted] is "vindictive, mean and the most unpleasant person I have ever met in my life".

[redacted] of the United States for Legislative Affairs, Washington, D.C. phone number [redacted] provided the following information regarding the background investigation of former Senator JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. [redacted] was asked to specifically comment on allegations that JOHN TOWER used alcohol to excess, and that he was a "womanizer". [redacted] provided the following information.

[redacted] advised that he was employed by the [redacted] between [redacted] through [redacted] and that TOWER was the Chairman of that Committee. [redacted] advised that later, he left the Committee to work at [redacted] and that he returned to the [redacted] in [redacted] where he remained until 1985. [redacted] advised that his relationship with JOHN TOWER was a professional one, and that though he was on the Committee which TOWER chaired, he was not a close personal friend of TOWER. [redacted] advised that he never heard of any rumors nor did he ever witness JOHN TOWER to be under the influence of alcohol in any public setting. [redacted] advised that he only knew JOHN TOWER on a professional basis and that the only social functions with which he and TOWER attended together were of a business nature. [redacted] re-emphasized that the first that he heard of any "public drunkenness" by TOWER was in the media approximately one week ago. [redacted] said that he did not know JOHN TOWER on a private basis, and could not comment nor could he speculate to TOWER's behavior in private.

[redacted] advised that he was aware that JOHN TOWER had a reputation for being a "lady's man". [redacted] advised however, that he never knew of anyone, nor was any name ever suggested to him, of anyone with whom JOHN TOWER was sharing a relationship. [redacted] advised that JOHN TOWER's staff included a number of attractive young women, but [redacted] said that many offices in the Capitol Hill Complex are staffed by attractive young women. [redacted] said that in terms of seeing JOHN TOWER in public, he said that he never witnessed TOWER to act inappropriately in any way in public.

[redacted] went on to describe JOHN TOWER as one of the most intelligent men ever to have served in the United States Senate. [redacted] said that TOWER would never associate himself with persons who would ever link him with any scandalous activities. [redacted] advised that one of TOWER's foremost characteristics is that he is extremely honest, and that he would never favor one party over another, especially in the Defense industry. [redacted] advised that JOHN TOWER was a "tough Texan" and "not a Sunday school teacher". [redacted] advised that TOWER was always in full control of himself, both emotionally and mentally, and that he was a very "cool cookie". [redacted] advised that his personal opinion of JOHN TOWER was that he had a fine reputation, and that he was a loyal American. [redacted] said that he would never believe JOHN TOWER to ever deal in any illegal drug traffic, nor would TOWER abuse, purchase, sell or distribute illegal drugs. [redacted] advised that he has seen JOHN TOWER use tobacco.

[redacted] advised that he had no way of knowing whether or not JOHN TOWER lived within his financial means. [redacted] said that he knew of the $700,000 salary obtained by TOWER during his consulting days, and he believed that JOHN TOWER would live well within his means. [redacted] said that he would never believe JOHN TOWER to harbor or display bias or prejudice against any group or persons for any reason.

[redacted] advised that he had to admit that he and JOHN TOWER did not share the same political views on many issues.

[redacted] advised however, that he would recommend JOHN TOWER for a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government.

[REDACTED] THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT, 107 D Street, Northeast, Washington, D.C., was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and that he was being interviewed regarding his knowledge of JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. [REDACTED] then voluntarily provided the following information.

TOWER has been coming to the restaurant since the early 1960's. TOWER regularly ate at the restaurant when he was a Senator. The majority of his visits were for lunch and, perhaps twice a month, he would have dinner with his wife. Recently, Tower has been to the restaurant with his family three or four times.

TOWER would have one or two drinks during his visits to the restaurant. [REDACTED] has never seen TOWER intoxicated nor has he seen any indication of TOWER abusing alcohol. He has never had any problem with TOWER because of his drinking or otherwise. TOWER has never been loud or abusive in the restaurant and has always behaved like a gentleman.

[REDACTED] has not seen any signs of womanizing by TOWER. When TOWER has been accompanied by women other than his wife, it has appeared to be in a professional context. These women appeared to be staff members or other employees from Capitol Hill.

[redacted] Bartender, THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT, 107 D Street, Northeast, Washington, D.C., was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents and that he was being interviewed regarding his knowledge of JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. [redacted] then voluntarily provided the following information.

He has been a bartender at THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT since 1974. He knows TOWER, by sight, as a patron of the restaurant. When TOWER was a Senator, he would frequent the restaurant a couple of times a week. TOWER has been to the restaurant only a few times since he left the Senate. Over the years, [redacted] has spoken to TOWER a half dozen times.

TOWER came to the restaurant mainly for dinner. TOWER never sat at the bar and, in the past five years, has had drinks in the lounge part of the restaurant perhaps two times. [redacted] has never seen TOWER intoxicated nor has he seen him stagger, belligerent, or exhibit any other indication of abuse of alcohol. Overall, TOWER has not been out of order in any way while he was in the restaurant. TOWER has a good reputation as a patron and is considered a gentleman.

He has seen TOWER in the company of women at the restaurant but could not give the frequency with which this occurred. He did not know the identity of these women, but neither could he identify TOWER's wife. [redacted] did not remember anything out of order in the way TOWER acted with these women.

[redacted] had heard gossip over the years of "TOWER's new women." He believed this to be typical Capitol Hill gossip that was also said about many other Senators and Congressmen. He did not remember who had spread the gossip or when he had heard it.

[redacted] Waiter, The Monocle, 107 D Street, N.E., Washington, D.C., was advised of the identity of the agents and the purpose of the interview regarding the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. He provided the following information:

He has been employed at The Monocle for one year and four months. During this period, he has observed the appointee as a customer approximately six times for lunch and two or three times at night. TOWER consumes two to four drinks per visit to the restaurant, and comes in "pretty loaded" on the occasions when he arrives in the evening, after 11:00 p.m. [redacted] could not recall TOWER's drink of preference. On the two or three occasions when TOWER has come in late, it was apparent that he had been drinking somewhere else, earlier. [redacted] elaborated by describing the appointee as "visibly affected", "a little clumsy", "more brusque than usual", and a "trifle awkward". He takes a table by himself, and is joined ten to fifteen minutes later by a female companion. According to [redacted] the appointee has a good number of woman friends, some of which appear to be in their early 30's, and others maybe 38 to 40 years old. [redacted] could not be specific about the number of times TOWER has been in the restaurant in the company of females or identify any of them. He stated that when TOWER meets with them late in the evening, they "sink into deep communion", or converse in such a way that he felt reluctant to approach TOWER's table for any reason. Although the appointee and his companions have appeared to be in intimate conversation and unconscious of their surroundings, he has never observed them display any sort of physical intimacy. The last episode of this kind was two to four months ago involving TOWER and an unidentified woman approximately 36 to 38 years of age. He was joined by the woman, had a "few drinks, then a few more", engaged in intimate conversation across the table, was "a little loaded", ate, then left. [redacted] could not be specific about the number of drinks TOWER consumed. The appointee most recently came to The Monocle in late January, 1989 with "a couple of men" and five or six women, two of which appeared to be less than 30 years old.

[redacted] has never seen or heard of the appointee as being in an intoxicated state. Likewise, the appointee has never been unruly, loud, or boisterous. [redacted] stated that the appointee is a "nice man, generous, and a good customer".

[redacted] stated that he has seen the appointee in the company of [redacted] (last name unknown), whom he believes is [redacted]. No women companions of the appointee have been observed by [redacted] in an intimate or romantic setting.

[redacted] advised that he was the waiter that served the appointee and [redacted] on February 1, 1989. He stated that he was in close proximity to the appointee and [redacted] during the course of their lunch at the hotel that day. [redacted] stated that he never heard or observed an occurrence as was later reported in the WASHINGTON POST on February 2, 1989 referring to "fondling". He stated that two female and one male WASHINGTON POST reporters were having lunch at an adjoining table. He knew these were WASHINGTON POST reporters because they have previously dined at the hotel. It is his opinion that these reporters are the source of the article.

She has had contact with TOWER since September of 1988.
[redacted] advised that if TOWER stays at the hotel 5 days, he will have dinner there two to three times.

[redacted] stated that the appointee normally drinks red wine, but occasionally white. During the course of a meal, TOWER will consume three to four glasses of wine. Until several months ago, TOWER was known by [redacted] to consume vodka. She stated that this was the only hard liquor he ever drank. If TOWER had one or two vodkas before dinner, he would have one and one half glasses of wine during the meal. TOWER is not a frequent visitor of cocktail hour, but if he does attend, it is to meet business associates. [redacted] stated that the most TOWER will have at cocktail hour is one or two drinks, sometimes none at all. She believes the appointee does not drink at all since he returned from BAYLOR UNIVERSITY MEDICAL CENTER.

[redacted] advised that she has never seen or heard of the appointee being in an intoxicated state, nor has she ever seen him behave in a loud, obnoxious or boisterous manner. She described the appointee as "very quiet", and stated that he seems

Regarding the appointee's ability to drive after consuming alcohol, she recalls on two occasions hearing a loud noise shortly before the appointee's entry to the building, which she said was the appointee having difficulty negotiating the sharp left curve into the complex with his automobile. Upon further inquiry she noted however that the appointee's car was apparently hitting the curb, but not with such force that the automobile came over the curb as she noted it was about three feet wide and the appointee's automobile never struck the building or the glass comprising that side of the lobby. She believes on one of the occasions a tow truck retrieved the appointee's automobile but recalls no other details of the incident. On neither of the two occasions in which the appointee's automobile struck the curb did she have occasion to observe the appointee's automobile afterwards, or witness the appointee's striking of the curb.

When questioned as to whether she was aware of any other derogatory information concerning the appointee, she mentioned that "there were a lot of women around when his wife wasn't around." Upon further inquiry, she was unable to determine whether these ladies were or were not staff members of the appointee. She does recall having been told by others in the building that the appointee was frequently called for in the morning by staff members and that he very often was brought home by a cab. She also recalls on one occasion the sofa in the appointee's condominium caught on fire one evening not too long before she went home, she surmising that this was caused by a cigarette after a "happy hour".

When asked as to whether she had ever been approached by other residents regarding the appointee and his late night activities, she responded in the affirmative but does not recall the names of any specific tenants. She does recall one tenant having expressed relief when it was discovered that JOHN (LINKIN) was parking the appointee's automobile, thus his own vehicle would be safe from being struck during that process.

She has never known the appointee to abuse prescription drugs, nor to use or sell drugs of abuse. She knows of no criminal activity in the appointee's past nor of any other derogatory information concerning him. She assumes he would be in a position to handle sensitive information effectively.

The interviewee believes [redacted] to be in a position to comment knowledgeably concerning the appointee's residence at Cathedral West.

[redacted] advised that she has served on [redacted] from its beginning and that at no Board meeting that she has ever attended were any allegations regarding the appointee's use of alcohol, driving proficiency after consuming alcohol, nor automobile accidents in or near Cathedral West, entered into discussion. When asked as to whether the [redacted] maintains minutes of its meetings, [redacted] responded in the affirmative, noting that the records dating from the appointee's residency would be contained in four or five one and one-half inch notebooks, beginning in June, 1972. She commented however, regarding the allegations, "[redacted]"

When asked as to whether she could recall the persons who would have worked the front desk during the TOWERS' residence, after checking her records, _____ responded that there were three: MARY (Mrs. EDWARD) ALTMAN, who currently resides at 4101 Cathedral Avenue, N.W., _____ who currently resides at _____ who currently resides at _____ Washington, D.C. The interviewee cautioned however that these three ladies were in a position to hear a lot of gossip, some of which she knows to be false, thus one should be "careful of what they tell you." When asked as to whether Cathedral West employs a security guard service, the interviewee responded in the negative, advised that the complex has never employed such a service.

_____ recalls her introduction to the appointee as having been at a party at the TOWERS' apartment, sometime between 1972 and 1976. When asked to characterize the appointee, _____ responded "I didn't know him well, didn't see him too often," going on to mention however "I was very impressed that day when I saw him (referring to the party to which she was invited), (I was) interested in what he had to say." When asked to comment upon the appointee's reputation in the neighborhood, the interviewee related "as far as I know, everybody respected him; I never heard anything against the man."

The interviewee recommends the appointee with respect to his character, loyalty, and associates within the complex. She believes him to be emotionally stable and is unaware of any financial irresponsibility on his part commenting "he had a modest apartment; let me say that." The interviewee has never known the appointee to abuse alcohol or prescription drugs, nor to use or sell drugs of abuse. When queried as to whether she recalled the appointee's consumption of alcohol during the party, SPELTS related that she remembers that there were drinks served but "no indication from his behavior that he drank more than any of the guests, no indication of any excessive drinking."

The interviewee is unaware of any foreign contacts of the appointee that would be considered unusual or any type of a national security sense, nor of any radical or adverse political associations on his part.

When asked as to whether she believed that he would have any difficulty in continuing to deal effectively with sensitive information, _____ responded "from what I know, I would have no doubt," going on to mention that she has limited knowledge in this area however. The interviewee has never known the appointee to manifest any evidence of prejudice or bias. She is further unaware of any derogatory information concerning the appointee, to include any criminal activity in the appointee's past. The interviewee is likewise unaware of any aspect of the appointee's past that would render him susceptible to any kind of a coercive effort.

When asked as to whether she was in a position to comment upon the appointee's interaction with his own family, _____ responded "it was normal as far as my experience is concerned." She mentioned however, that the appointee's wife, LOU, was elected to one of the early condominium boards, thus indicating that she was highly respected by the residents. _____ characterized the appointee's wife by saying "she's a fine, fine lady; my impression of her rose even higher when I found out that she and the daughters were attending the hearings (the appointee's Senate Confirmation Hearings)."

When asked as to whether she was aware of any other residents of the complex who would be familiar with the appointee during his tenure, _____ responded that she could think of three: _____

_____ of Reston, Virginia, who _____ at their departure. _____ characterized _____ as "a very fine person," mentioning that she believes he was an aide to the Senator.

When asked whether she would recommend the appointee continue a position of trust and confidence with the United States Government, _____ responded in the affirmative "on the basis of what I know."

ACCIDENT REPORT INQUIRY

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [REDACTED] regarding the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER:

Metropolitan Police Department
Second District Police Station
3320 Idaho Avenue, N.W.
Washington, D.C.

Officer [REDACTED] advised on February 4, 1989, that accident reports are kept by this office for only three months, and are then sent to the District Building, 300 Indiana Avenue, to the Public Documents Section, on the second floor. She further advised that such record are filed by police complaint number and thus any query of those records would require either that complaint number or the exact date of an accident and the parties involved.

WFT-11 was contacted at a neutral site and was advised of the identity of the interviewing agents both orally and by a show of credentials. After being advised of the purpose of the interview, WFT-11 freely provided the following information:

WFT-11 served on the general staff of the U.S. delegation to the U.S./Soviet arms reduction talks in Geneva, Switzerland. He traveled with the staff to Geneva and worked with them at the State Department. During his work on the staff he had occasion to become familiar with JOHN TOWER and other members of the staff. He stated TOWER liked to work extremely long hours to avoid coming home to his wife. TOWER and his staff had parties every Friday, usually at the mission, while in Geneva. Parties were not unusual, but TOWER and his people seemed to have them twice as often as other ambassadors and staffs, and while most were held at people's homes or hotels, TOWER usually had his at the mission.. The parties consisted of drinking and poker games. WFT-11 never actually attended any of the poker games but heard from others that TOWER usually won and that the stakes were known to be high, sometimes as much as five-hundred dollars per raise.

While on the staff, WFT-11 had occasion to personally observe TOWER drink alcohol, though he never saw him get drunk or out of hand. He saw him drink wine and mixed drinks (liquor) on numerous occasions. He knew of no illegal drug use by TOWER.

WFT-11 is aware of an incident that happened at the State Department in the staff office of Ambassador TOWER sometime

Nothing further happened but it was felt this was extremely inappropriate behavior for a professional, let alone an ambassador. It was often wondered by the general staff why _____

It was commonly rumored that she was simply _____ WFT-11 felt many of TOWER'S staff were placed in good paying jobs not because of their abilities, but due to their loyalty to TOWER. He also stated that on at least one occasion TOWER used his staff for personal use while on government time. TOWER's basement was flooding and he ordered his staff to go over to his house and help clean it out.

It is WFT-11's opinion that TOWER does not care about sexual harassment on the job as WFT-11 knows of _____ that TOWER was aware of, but would not back _____

It is also WFT-11's opinion that TOWER, as head of the Tower Commission, during the Iran Contra hearings "whitewashed" over the affair in return for the political payoff of becoming Secretary of Defense which it was widely known he coveted.

[redacted] Adelphi, Maryland, [redacted] was advised of the identity of the agent and the purpose of the interview regarding his knowledge of the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER. He provided the following information:

He was employed as a waiter at The Monocle Restaurant, Washington, D.C. from 1962 to April, 1987. He worked the lunch shift for a short time at the beginning of his employment, then only at dinnertime until he retired. Senator TOWER came in for lunch regularly, sometimes accompanied by his secretary whose name he could not recall. These lunches appeared to be purely professional.

The appointee ate dinner at The Monocle every month or two, always with his wife. It was usually early in the evening, and appeared to be prior to another event, as the appointee and his wife would be dressed in formal attire. [redacted] did not believe that TOWER ever ordered an alcoholic beverage. On one occasion, Senator HUBERT HUMPHREY was seated in the dining room while TOWER was there with another group. HUMPHREY requested [redacted] to send TOWER a drink, which the appointee declined in favor of a "rain check". [redacted] never observed the appointee with another woman in any sort of a romantic setting.

[redacted] has never seen the appointee in any state of intoxication and stated that he always behaved as a gentleman. Of all the employees of The Monocle, TOWER was most closely associated with [redacted]

[REDACTED]

HE ADVISED HE MET SUBJECT WHEN JOHN TOWER FIRST CAME TO THE SENATE IN 1961-62. HE ADVISED THAT TOWER IS SOPHISTICATED AND THAT HE IS A CONNOISSEUR OF FINE WINES. HE MET FORMER SENATOR TOWER IN THE MONOCLE AND HAS KNOWN HIM EVER SINCE. DURING THE FIRST TEN YEARS OF THEIR ACQUAINTANCE, HE ON THREE OCCASIONS DROVE TOWER HOME BECAUSE IN HIS OPINION, TOWER HAD HAD TOO MUCH TO DRINK. DURING THIS PERIOD OF TIME, HE EXPLAINED THAT TOWER WAS DRINKING MARTINIS. HE STATED THAT TOWER WAS NOT ABUSIVE OR DRUNKEN, NOR DID HE APPEAR TO NOT BE IN CONTROL OF HIS FACULTIES ON THOSE OCCASIONS. HE INDICATED THAT TOWER RESIDED SEVERAL MILES FROM HIM IN [REDACTED] AND HE TOOK TOWER TO TOWER'S RESIDENCE, WHICH WAS ON HIS WAY TO HIS OWN RESIDENCE.

[ ] DOES NOT CONSIDER TOWER TO BE AN ALCOHOLIC AND HE HAS NEVER SEEN TOWER IN THE SITUATION WHERE HE WAS OUT OF CONTROL AND NOT IN CONTROL OF HIS FACULTIES. HE INDICATED THAT WHEN THE SENATE WAS IN SESSION, TOWER WOULD DINE AT THE MONOCLE IN THE EVENINGS THREE TO FOUR TIMES PER WEEK. TOWER WOULD GENERALLY BE ACCOMPANIED BY MALE AND FEMALE MEMBERS OF HIS STAFF AND SOMETIMES BY HIS WIFE OR OTHER SENATORS. HE DID NOT KNOW TOWER TO IMBIBE DURING THE AFTERNOON OR LUNCH.

[ ] HAS MET TOWER'S FIRST AND SECOND WIFE, AND BOTH HE AND HIS WIFE HAD SOCIALIZED WITH THE TOWERS ON SEVERAL OCCASIONS DURING THE LAST TWENTY FIVE YEARS. HE DOES NOT KNOW TOWER TO BE A PHILANDERER AND TO THE BEST OF HIS KNOWLEDGE KNOW OF NO INSTANCE WHEN TOWER DINED IN THE MONOCLE WITH OTHER THAN HIS WIFE, STAFFERS OR OTHER SENATORS. HE INDICATED THAT TOWER HAS AN "EYE" FOR ATTRACTIVE WOMEN, HOWEVER DOES NOT KNOW HIM TO BE A "SKIRT CHASER".

DURING THE LAST FIFTEEN YEARS, [ ] INDICATED THAT TOWER HAS LIMITED HIS SOCIAL DRINKING TO CONSUMING ONLY WINE AND DURING THE LAST SEVERAL YEARS HE IS AWARE THAT TOWER HAS REDUCED HIS INTAKE OF WINE.

HE CHARACTERIZED TOWER AS A MAN WHO LIKED TO DRINK, BUT DID NOT BELIEVE THAT TOWER DRANK TO EXCESS. ON THOSE THREE OCCASIONS WHEN HE TOOK TOWER HOME, HE DID SO BASED ON WHAT HE KNEW TOWER HAD DRUNK, AND NOT ON TOWER'S PHYSICAL CONDITION. ON NO OCCASION DID HE EVER SEE TOWER IN A DRUNKEN CONDITION.

[ ] OPINED THAT HE HAS RESERVATIONS ABOUT TOWER BEING CONSIDERED FOR THE POSITION OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE BASED ON TOWER'S EXPERIENCE; NOT HIS DRINKING. HE BELIEVES THAT TOWER CAN PERFORM THE JOB OF SECRETARY OF DEFENSE, HOWEVER THINKS THE JOB SHOULD GO TO AN INDIVIDUAL WHO IS AN INDUSTRIALIST AND WHO HAS EXPERIENCE RUNNING A MAJOR CORPORATION AS OPPOSED TO AN INDIVIDUAL WITH TOWER'S BACKGROUND.

[ ] SUGGESTED THAT FORMER STAFFERS OF TOWER BE INTERVIEWED REGARDING TOWER'S FITNESS TO BE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE. HE COULD RECALL NO NAMES SPECIFICALLY OF FORMER STAFFERS AND COULD SUGGEST NO OTHER PERSONS TO INTERVIEW PERTAINING TO TOWER AND HIS FITNESS TO BE SECRETARY OF DEFENSE.

The following investigation was conducted by Special Agent [redacted] on February 6, 1989, regarding the appointee, JOHN GOODWIN TOWER.

[redacted] Internal Security Section, 1400 New York Avenue, Northwest, Washington, D.C., telephone number [redacted] was contacted and advised that the appointee was not registered as a foreign agent under the Foreign Agents Registration Act of 1938.

[redacted] stated that approximately a year ago an inquiry was made by a member of the appointee's staff whether the appointee was required to register due to his representation of a British corporation. [redacted] advised that a meeting was held between his office and the appointee's attorney, name unknown, to determine the interpretation of the law. It was agreed at this meeting that the appointee was acting as an agent of an American subsidiary, of a multinational corporation, in a substantial business interest. This was a lawful exemption to the Act.

[redacted] United States Senate, Committee on Armed Services, 228 Russell, Senate Office Building, Washington, D.C., telephone number [redacted] was advised of the identity of the interviewing agent and that she was being interviewed regarding a background clearance investigation concerning JOHN GOODWIN TOWER and her knowledge of any current or past circumstances that might have a bearing on his suitability for Federal employment or access to classified information. [redacted] voluntarily provided the following information:

[redacted] advised she began to work for the Committee on Armed Services in April, 1984.

[redacted] knew of no alcohol abuse by TOWER and has been at Committee office functions in which he attended approximately two to four times since her employment with the Committee. Usually, these functions would occur after hard floor debates on the Defense Bill. These functions occurred usually on Fridays after 4:00 p.m. At that time, party trays of food were purchased and alcohol was consumed. [redacted] viewed TOWER drinking but never to the state of intoxication. She added he would only stay a few minutes at the function and leave. During this time, [redacted] always knew TOWER to be very articulate and in control of himself.

[redacted] never knew TOWER to commit sexual indiscretions with staff members or Capitol Hill employees. [redacted] advised TOWER has never personally made advances toward her and she knew of no one whom he had.

[redacted] advised that TOWER was highly respected by staff members and was personable and "never grumpy". [redacted] advised she believed that his staff was intensely loyal to him and she knew of no problems in his background or professional life.

[redacted] could not comment further regarding TOWER's alleged sexual indiscretions or alcohol abuse.

Date of transcription

On February 1 and, again on February 4, 1989, the following information was provided by a person, hereinafter referred to as WF T-10 [redacted] who requested that his identity remain confidential and not be disclosed outside the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI). For convenience, WF T-10 will be occasionally referred to [redacted]

b7D

WF T-10 was contacted regarding his knowledge of the appointee. He advised that he does not personally know Senator JOHN TOWER, who is currently subject to a Presidential appointment.

WF T-10 advised, however, that during the period, approximately 1976-1977, Senator TOWER was "at a focal point of a network of gossip", because of allegations of his excessive drinking habits and womanizing. WF T-10 advised that he did not personally know if Senator TOWER was frequently drunk or not because he had never seen him drunk. He had heard that encounters with various female, Capitol Hill employees always "ended in a 'grope-date'". WF T-10 declined to be specific as to what he meant by "grope-date", because, as he put it, it would be embarrassing for him to use the words, but went on to say that Senator TOWER "got sexual kicks during drinking and dining with women." According to WF T-10, Senator TOWER often didn't remember what he had done, afterwards (drinking).

WF T-10 advised that his information, as vague as it might be, had to do with Senator TOWER during a period which is previous to his marriage to his now ex-wife.

WF T-10 advised that he was aware of three Capitol Hill, female employees who had said that Senator TOWER was "most troublesome", and "dangerous". By way of explanation, WF T-10 advised that two young, female Capitol Hill employees, whom he had met at a wine and cheese reception, told him that yet a third young woman was especially emotionally bothered by Senator TOWER's efforts to harass her, sexually. The two women at the party asked WF T-10 if this unidentified, third woman could call him to discuss this sexual harassment matter, because he, WF T-10, was very much involved in women's rights and sexual harassment issues.

WF T-10 advised that he could not recall the names of these two women he had met at the party who had described their friend as a "basket-case", because he had never met them before, nor has he seen them since. WF T-10 has no way of helping the FBI develop the names of the two women he had met at the wine and cheese party. Neither was WF T-10 able to provide the identity of this woman whom he described as actually being a "basket-case".

WF T-10 went on to explain this third unidentified young woman did, in fact, call him on two separate occasions, wherein this third, unidentified woman generated the telephone call. Therefore, WF T-10 did not know the woman's name or how to contact her. After two telephonic interviews, WF T-10 came to the belief that the young woman was, in fact, "a basket-case". However, he advised that while information provided by this woman, was very interesting, it was not useful with respect to work he was doing in the women's rights field at that time.

WF T-10 advised that, insomuch as there was no real newspaper "gossip column" during that period of time, the telephone network among women was very important. According to WF T-10, there was a "sister-hood" of women who had stories about Senator TOWER's modus operandi, and how they handled him (and others, for that matter.) WF T-10 advised that Senator TOWER was "a figure of fun" and was said to have frequently taken young women from Capitol Hill to the "cheater's paradise", which were identified by WF T-10 as the Rotunda and the Monocle, which were prominent, socially, during that time frame. WF T-10 said the Rotunda no longer exists and, the Monocle is still located at 107 D Street, N.E., Washington, D.C.

WF T-10 repeated that he wouldn't discuss what "the basket-case" (used here for the lack of a better, true name) said Senator TOWER did to her "under the table", meaning the lunch or restaurant table.

Continuation of FD-302 of _____, On _____, Page _____

According to WF T-10, the women in this "sister-hood" had enlisted the help of various waiters and bus-boys, because of their sensitivity to the women. They would always try to arrange to have at least one of them stay around Senator TOWER's table so as not to leave the women alone with him.

WF T-10 advised that "everybody in town who covered "the Hill" knew about Senator TOWER and his excessive drinking habits and womanizing."

WF T-10 was, however, unable to provide the specific names and specific locations and the contact points, to include telephone numbers, for persons who could further verify and confirm his information.

WF T-10 stated that he had no additional specific, pertinent information to provide regarding Senator TOWER.

Title: JOHN GOODWIN TOWER

Character: SPECIAL INQUIRY

Synopsis:

MM T-1 advised on 2/4/89, he/she has known JOHN GOODWIN TOWER since TOWER first came to the United States Senate, 1961-1962. MM T-1 met TOWER at the MONOCLE RESTAURANT, 107 D Street, N.E., Washington, D.C. MM T-1 considers TOWER to be sophisticated and is aware that TOWER is a connoisseur of fine wines. During the first 10 years of their acquaintance, MM T-1 recalled that he/she drove TOWER home from THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT because in MM T-1's opinion, TOWER had had too much to drink. MM T-1 does not consider TOWER to be an alcoholic. MM T-1 has never seen TOWER in a situation where TOWER was out of control and not in control of his faculties. MM T-1 advised that TOWER would dine at THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT three to four times per week when the United States Senate was in session. Accompanying TOWER would be his male and female staffers; his wife; or other Senators. MM T-1 does not know TOWER to be a philanderer and knows of no instance when TOWER dined at THE MONOCLE with other than his wife, staffers or fellow Senators. MM T-1 advised that TOWER changed his preference for martinis to wine and for the last 10 to 15 years, TOWER drank only wine when having a drink. MM T-1 indicated that during the last several years, TOWER reduced his wine intake. MM T-1 did not know TOWER to drink in the afternoon or during lunch. MM T-1 has reservations about TOWER being considered for the Secretary of Defense based on TOWER's experience. MM T-1 is of the opinion that TOWER can perform the job of Secretary of Defense; however, is of the opinion the job should go to an individual who is an industrialist and who has experience running a major corporation.

MM T-1 advised he/she met subject when JOHN TOWER first came to the Senate in 1961-1962. He/she advised that TOWER is sophisticated and that he is a connoisseur of fine wines. MM T-1 met former Senator TOWER in THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT, Washington, D.C. and has known him ever since. During the first ten years of their acquaintance, he/she on three occasions drove TOWER home because in his/her opinion, TOWER had had too much to drink. During this period of time, he/she explained that TOWER was drinking martinis. He/she stated that TOWER was not abusive or drunken, nor did he appear to not be in control of his faculties on those occasions. He/she indicated that TOWER resided several miles from him/her in Bethesda, Maryland, and he/she took TOWER to TOWER's residence, which was on his/her way to his/her own residence.

MM T-1 does not consider TOWER to be an alcoholic and he/she has never seen TOWER in a situation where he was out of control and not in control of his faculties. He/she indicated that when the Senate was in session, TOWER would dine at THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT in the evenings three to four times a week. TOWER would generally be accompanied by male and female members of his staff, and sometimes by his wife, or other Senators. He/she did not know TOWER to imbibe during the afternoon or lunch.

MM T-1 has met TOWER's first and second wife, and both he/she and his/her wife/husband have socialized with the TOWERS on several occasions during the last 25 years. He/she does not know TOWER to be a philanderer and to the best of his/her knowledge, knows of no instance when TOWER dined in THE MONOCLE RESTAURANT with other than his wife, staffers or other Senators. He/she indicated that TOWER has an "eye" for attractive women; however, does not know him to be a "skirt chaser".

During the last 10 to 15 years, MM T-1 indicated that TOWER has limited his social drinking to consuming only wine and during the last several years, he/she is aware that TOWER has reduced his intake of wine. He/she characterized TOWER as a man who liked to drink, but did not believe that TOWER drank to excess. On those three occasions when he/she took TOWER home, he/she did so based on what he/she knew TOWER had drunk, and not on TOWER's physical condition. On no occasion did he/she ever see TOWER in a drunken condition.

INTERVIEW OF MM T-1, 2/4/89, PAGE 2

MM T-1 opined he/she has reservations about TOWER being considered for the position of Secretary of Defense based on TOWER's experience; not his drinking. He/she believes that TOWER can perform the job of Secretary of Defense; however, thinks the job should go to an individual who is an industrialist and who has experience running a major corporation as opposed to an individual with TOWER's background.

MM T-1 suggested that former staffers of TOWER be interviewed regarding TOWER's fitness to be Secretary of Defense. He/she could recall no names specifically of former staffers and could suggest no other person to interview pertaining to TOWER.

ADMINISTRATIVE:

Interviewee, [REDACTED] was apprised of certain provisions of the Privacy Act, but did not request confidentiality.

Miami highlights the fact that information volunteered by interviewee, [REDACTED] is entirely speculative in nature, based upon the substance of the interview, and [REDACTED] self admitted characterization of the complaint. During interview, [REDACTED] was long winded concerning the sexual indiscretions of numerous individuals entirely unrelated to the subject matter of this report. Clearly [REDACTED] is preoccupied with sexual conduct and appeared to have a tenuous grasp upon reality. Miami places no confidence in any speculative information volunteered by [REDACTED]

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date of transcription 2/6/89

[redacted]
Miami, Florida, telephone number [redacted] telephonically furnished the following information:

Some years ago, exact time period unrecalled, [redacted] met a woman named [redacted] or [redacted] who was visiting her [redacted] At the time, [redacted] was living at [redacted] Miami, Florida. The [redacted] were neighbors of [redacted] address not recalled. During conversation with [redacted] learned that [redacted] was a [redacted] employee and was in South Florida to take a cruise, destination unrecalled, cruise line unrecalled.

[redacted] was aware that at that same time, Senator JOHN TOWER, Chairman of the Senate Agricultural Committee, was in South Florida for the purpose of attending hearings relative to the sugar industry.

[redacted] speculated that since [redacted] worked for the [redacted] and was in South Florida at the same time as TOWER, both would be taking the cruise together. At no time did [redacted] mention TOWER in connection with herself, or her cruise. [redacted] made it very clear that the connection between [redacted] and TOWER was entirely speculative on his part.

In addition to the above, [redacted] volunteered volumes of information on the sexual indiscretions of numerous past and present public figures, personal associates and past and present neighbors. All such information was unrelated to Senator TOWER or [redacted]

[redacted] could offer no further information to identify [redacted] other than to state she represented herself as a [redacted] employee.

[redacted] stated that [redacted] moved to somewhere in the state of South Carolina between Charleston and Columbia.

ON FEBRUARY 5, 1989, [REDACTED] WAS TELEPHONICALLY CONTACTED BY SSA [REDACTED] AND VOLUNTEERED
THE FOLLOWING INFORMATION TO SUPPLEMENT INFORMATION FURNISHED TO THE FBI ON FEBRUARY 4, 1989:

[REDACTED] IN FACT, HAS NO INFORMATION WHICH WOULD INDICATE THAT [REDACTED] EMPLOYEE [REDACTED] OR [REDACTED] [REDACTED] PERSONALLY KNOWS, OR WAS EVER INVOLVED WITH JOHN TOWER.

FURTHER, [REDACTED] HAS NO INFORMATION INDICATING THAT [REDACTED] TOOK A CRUISE WITH TOWER AT ANY TIME. [REDACTED] MERELY SPECULATED THAT

[REDACTED] TOOK A CRUISE WITH TOWER SOME YEARS AGO BASED UPON THE FACT THAT BOTH WERE IN SOUTH FLORIDA AT THE SAME TIME. [REDACTED] WAS UNABLE TO PINPOINT THE TIME PERIOD, BUT DID STATE THAT SENATOR TOWER WAS CHAIRMAN OF THE SENATE AGRICULTURAL COMMITTEE AND WAS IN SOUTH FLORIDA FOR HEARINGS REGARDING THE SUGAR INDUSTRY. AT THAT SAME TIME, [REDACTED] MET [REDACTED] WHO WAS VISITING [REDACTED]

[REDACTED] ADDRESS NOT RECALLED. [REDACTED] HAD IDENTIFIED HERSELF AS AN EMPLOYEE OF THE [REDACTED]
AND INDICATED THAT SHE WOULD BE TAKING A CRUISE WHILE VISITING SOUTH FLORIDA. [REDACTED] DID NOT IDENTIFY THE CRUISE LINE OR DESTINATION. [REDACTED] CONCLUDED, ENTIRELY ON HIS OWN, THAT TOWER

WOULD BE ACCOMPANYING [ ] ON THAT CRUISE. AGAIN, [ ] NEVER STATED OR IMPLIED THAT TOWER WOULD BE ON THE CRUISE WITH HER, NOR DID SHE MENTION TOWER IN ANY FASHION.

IT IS IMPORTANT TO NOTE THAT [ ] HAD GREAT DIFFICULTY FOCUSING SOLELY ON THE ISSUE AT HAND. [ ] RAMBLED AND RECOUNTED CAPSULIZED, "STORIES" THROUGH OUT THIS TELEPHONIC INTERVIEW. ALL SUCH STORIES WERE UNRELATED TO THE SUBJECT MATTER OF THIS SPIN. [ ] WAS CLEARLY PREOCCUPIED WITH SEXUAL MATTERS AND REPEATEDLY ARTICULATED HIS SINGULAR ABILITY TO WITHSTAND NUMEROUS TEMPTATIONS OVER THE YEARS. DURING THIS INTERVIEW, [ ] NAMED PERHAPS 30 INDIVIDUALS (ENTIRELY UNRELATED TO THIS SPIN MATTER) FROM PROMINENT PUBLIC FIGURES TO BUSINESS AND PERSONAL ASSOCIATES TO NEIGHBORS. WITHOUT EXCEPTION, [ ] ATTRIBUTED GROSS AND FLAGRANT SEXUAL MISCONDUCT TO ALL SUCH INDIVIDUALS EXCEPT HE AND HIS MOTHER, WHO [ ] REFERENCED FREQUENTLY.

[ ] COULD OFFER NO FURTHER IDENTIFICATION OF [ ] OTHER THAN TO CITE HER CLAIM THAT SHE WAS A [ ] EMPLOYEE.
